

103 South Wayne Street

On the south side of Forget Me Not Florist is a landscaped lot. This is the spot where a small building stood. It housed the Porterfield McDaniel Bank. John Porterfield and George McDaniel began the bank in 1881. In 1898 the bank moved to North Wayne Street where Fort Recovery Radio is today.

This lot became the site of a cobbler, Peter Schlimbecker's shoe repair shop, along with various meat markets - Schneider in the 1920s, and also G. Fred Wagner, and Charles Roop. Reinhard Barber Shop, Ashcraft Barber Shop, and Agnes Fisher Faller's beauty shop (Keep-U-Neat) had businesses here. In 1970 this building was torn down.
