

Enlisted Personnel, United States Army, 1791

The following roll of enlisted men is shared with the permission of Richard M. Lytle, author of The Soldiers of America's First Army, 1791 (The Scarecrow Press, Inc. 2004).

An earlier version of the list appears in the book, which is a history of the events that culminated in the defeat of General Arthur St. Clair's army at the Battle of the Wabash on November 4, 1791. The Soldiers of America's First Army, 1791, includes biographical sketches of the officers and the history of the US Army military units, active in 1791, that comprised St. Clair's army in the Northwest Indian War:

- US Battalion of Artillery
- First and Second US Regiments of Infantry
- First and Second US Regiment of Levies (militias temporarily assigned to the US Army)
- Colonel William Oldham's Kentucky Militia Regiment

Richard Lytle created the original list of enlisted personnel from records at the National Archives (Record Group 94), the papers of Arthur St. Clair, and Francis Heitman's Historical Register and Dictionary of the United States' Army, plus many other state and federal archival materials, personal papers, and newspapers.

Since the publication of the book in 2004, Richard Lytle has continued to research and update the information on enlisted men. He has graciously allowed the updated (2025) list to be made available here to researchers by the Fort Recovery Historical Society and Museum and the Hamilton County, Ohio, Genealogical Society.
